Proposed Dollar General in Monterey Twp threatens local party store

By Jordan Wilcox
Assistant Publisher

After several years of fabricating raw steel into products and a few painful surgeries, Todd Bursma decided he needed a career change.

He and his family sold their home, farm, and twenty acres of land, and moved to Allegan County, to purchase the Dumont Lake Party Store in Monterey Township.

This was five years ago. Since then, the Bursmas have transformed the small-town liquor store into a community staple.

Many would say they’ve achieved the American Dream.

However, if a newly proposed Dollar General is constructed across the street, Todd Bursma fears his dream could be jeopardized.

In an interview with the Kalamazoo Gazette/MLive, he said that he’s worried Dollar General will undercut his prices drastically, which would drive him out of business.

“They can sell (products) at such a ridiculously low price... and that’s exactly what’s going to yank the rug out from me,” Bursma told MLive. “They sell three 12-packs of pop for the price of what I pay (the supplier) for one to sell.”

Despite selling items that Dollar General doesn’t, such as gas and lottery tickets, and trying to keep his prices as low as possible, Bursma says he couldn’t compensate for the anticipated loss of customers a new Dollar General would bring.

He also told MLive, that all of the store’s current profits either go towards maintenance or paying off the landowners – something he’ll be doing for the next ten years.

“We put products on the shelves and the next week, we do the same thing over and over again to try to make that little bit of money,” said Bursma to MLive. “Especially to make it through these winter months where we really don’t make very much money.”

Bursma is not alone in his concerns. Many township residents are similarly concerned about the effects of a big corporation moving into the township.

Social media posts on this issue are filled with comments about spending money locally, supporting family-owned businesses, and not needing another Dollar General in the county.

Commenters also question why Dollar General even feels the need to build a store in Monterey Township, when they already have two other locations in the 49010 zip code, both within a 12-minute ride.

As for the feeling on the Dumont Lake Party Store specifically, township residents have overwhelmingly rallied behind the Bursmas.

Two petitions, one in-store, and one online, have been created to save the party store and prevent the construction of the Dollar General.

Bursma created the in-store one and has gathered over 500 signatures. He aims to get the Michigan Attorney General involved and have new laws put in place to prevent the construction of any Dollar General within five miles of an existing business.

On the other hand, the online petition was created without the involvement of the Bursmas, just in support.

Tyler Foley is a five-year resident of Monterey Township and the creator of the online petition.

He too spoke to MLive, and when asked why he started a petition, he stated, “I’ve watched (the Bursmas) pour everything they have into the place, and they’ve improved every single thing about it. It would kill me to see them lose all five years of their hard work.”

Foley also stated that he dislikes the mess made by non-residents and unsupervised kids who leave their trash around the lake. The Bursmas take extra precautions to keep the area clean, but he fears Dollar General will just exacerbate the problem.

His petition aims to grab the attention of the Allegan County Planning Commission and the Allegan County Board of Commissioners and hopefully have them stop the construction. He told MLive that he doesn’t know if his petition will accomplish anything, but “trying to spread the word couldn’t hurt.”

Henry Reinhart, Monterey Township supervisor, was the third person MLive interviewed. He basically said that there’s nothing he can do and that the township’s hands are tied, because the lot that Dollar General is proposing construction on is already zoned for commercial use.

He told MLive, “We’re a very proud agricultural town, but the state says you need to have land available for some commercial use and that just happens to be one of two lots... If we were to go ahead and just rezone that back to residential, I pretty much guarantee you that the judge is going to laugh at us.”

Reinhart added that even if they were to try, it would most likely involve an expensive legal battle that they’d “almost certainly” lose.

According to Reinhart, Dollar General’s lot was switched from residential to commercial zoning sometime in the 1980s because the owner wanted to open a hot dog stand.

Bursma was given the opportunity to purchase it before this mess, but passed because the asking price was six times greater than the parcel’s value, and he couldn’t afford it.

A representative from corporate Dollar General said they haven’t committed to building a new store on the property yet, but they expect to have a decision by summer.

The next Monterey Township Planning Board meeting is on March 10 at 7 p.m. at the United Methodist Church at 3022 130th Avenue. The next Township Board meeting is scheduled for March 3 at 7 p.m. at the Monterey Township Community Building.

Despite the township having few options, residents are encouraged to attend and voice their concerns about the situation.

Monterey Township residents who would like to sign Foley’s online petition, and have not done so, can do so at the link below. Foley is currently only looking for signatures from those who live in the township.

Coffee with the Council

Tom and Rosie Hunter met with Allegan Councilmembers Will Walker and Melanie Hooker at Mugshots on Friday, Feb. 21, 2025. The council members are in their first terms on the city council and want to hear from the residents of Allegan about their concerns, ideas for improvement, and things that are going well.

During the conversations, the duo heard ideas for offering more outdoor activities in the city like a sledding hill and a skating rink on the riverfront. Thoughts also went to finding bike routes to the Sports Center. Residents brought up questions regarding ordinances and their development. The next Coffee with the Council is scheduled for Friday, March 21st from 8-10am at Minnie’s. All are welcome to join the round table conversation.

Allegan approves plan to build 42 single family homes

By Gari Voss

The February 24, 2025, Allegan City Council meeting addressed a variety of issues related to ordinance, zoning and property development around the city. Increasing housing has been an ongoing goal for the city leadership.

Ordinance 527 Rezoning

The Council began with the first reading of Ordinance 527 for the rezoning of 100 Monroe Street and 565 Water Street. The approval formally moved the parcels from a C-1 Central Business District designation to a C-2 General Commercial District. The 2nd reading and public hearing for Ordinance 527 will be during the Council meeting on March 10, 2025. According to the city’s Master Plan 100 Monroe Street/M-222 and 565 Water Streets are adjacent parcels along the Kalamazoo River that house the Village Market and Juan Linn Restaurant. These businesses are already operating as general commercial, so the Planning Commission approved the change to align the parcels with the Master Plan and sent it forward to the Council to follow the process for an ordinance change.

Resolution 25.07 Brownfield Plan

The Council held a public hearing and voted favorably to adopt Resolution 25.07 to approve the Brownfield Plan for 500 Delano Street. At previous meetings, the Council had approved the plan for Allen Edwin Homes to build 42 single family residential units. Allen Edwin Homes is Michigan’s largest homebuilder. Their team explained that as soon as the Brownfield Plan is approved, the closing will take place, and excavation will begin. The State began allowing housing developments to be listed as Brownfield Development and to request the possible funding.

At this point, City Manager Joel Dye shared, “The developer intends to invest $12.6 million in this project, of which $4,479,396 may be captured and reimbursed to the developer as part of a Brownfield Tax Increment Financing plan; an additional $398,077 will be captured by the State of Michigan, and $1,523,713 will be captured by the City of Allegan.” These amounts may change somewhat. In addition, as units are completed and sold, the city will begin receiving property tax revenue.

Reports

Allegan Fire District. Councilmember Will Walker shared that the Board reviewed the increase in responses between 2023 and 2024. Discussion arose regarding the contract with Life EMS sharing space and times when EMS has requested assistance from the Fire District. The Board will review the contract.

Downtown Development Authority. Mayor Traci Perrigo shared that much of the meeting discussed the budget and how to best market downtown. The Match on Main applications are due by February 28th. Members McLean, Schmitt and Tibbits will review the applications.

Planning Commission. Councilmember Westover and Dye reviewed the rezoning of 100 Monroe St. and 565 Water St. from C-1 to C-3 General Business District. Dye also informed the group that a final conceptual residential plan had been completed for the Girl Scout Property, and a neighborhood meeting will be scheduled.

Finance Department. The request to approve Accounts Payable and Payroll with accounts payable in the amount of $156,503.15 and payroll in the amount of $132,754.80 for a total disbursement of $289,257.95 passed.

Resolution 25.05 Single Lot Assessment Resolution of Determination. The Board approved Resolution 25.05 that would direct the assessor to establish a special assessment roll for single lots.

Resolution 25.06 approving 2nd Quarter Budget Adjustments. The adjustment of the budget for the end of the second quarter, Dec. 31, 2024, was approved. This is a reduction in expenditures from what was originally planned. Resolution 25.08 establishing an application fee for temporary marijuana events. The council had previously approved that groups could apply for a temporary license. After researching the amount, it was suggested that the group be charged a $750 licensing fee for the city. This does not include any fee charged by the Fairground.

Review of the December 2024 and January 2025 Revenue and Expenditure reports. With the new agenda format, the reports will be shared each month. Finance Director Tracy Stull shared that she would be happy to go over each line item to give specific explanations on income and expenditures.

Public Works

Water Street Parking Lot. The request to authorize a purchase order for Milbocker & Sons in the amount of $110,371.60 for improvements to the Water Street parking lot and a budget adjustment in the amount of $125,000.00 for this project were approved.

As per the discussion during previous meetings, the Water Street parking lot between Meyers Bumper to Bumper and the Perrigo Outlet Store requires major repairs. Dye spoke with Milbocker’s & Sons to add this parking lot to the bid for the Hubbard St. Lot. The $110,371.60 will refurbish the whole lot.

Mahan Park Furniture. The Council approved the purchase order in the amount of $25,385 for the furniture for the Mahan Park Improvement Project and a total budget adjustment of $99,867.64 to the Mahan Park Improvement Project Budget. Thanks to grant funds, this project is under the original amount that the city budgeted. City Manager & City Clerk

The request to adopt Resolution 25.09 to approve a charitable gaming license for the AHS Safe Celebration Committee was approved. The state requires the local government to verify that the committee is truly a non-profit. This

The 500 Delano Street project by Allen Edwin Homes will make available 42 housing units of which 5 will be low-income rentals. The Allegan City Council approved the Brownfield Plan which will allow the group to apply for some subsidies to make the entire project more fiscally feasible.

will allow the Celebration Committee to have a pig raffle. The proceeds will go to fund the graduation parties. Update on the rental inspection program and city code enforcement

After 16 months into the new rental inspection program, PCI is still crawling because of several issues. The city has sent proposed ordinance changes to the attorney. These are also being reviewed by PCI. The new rental inspection ordinance will address that landlords pay the inspection fees; the fees will be better described; a clear penalty fee if inspections were not scheduled; an updated list of rentals that specifies commercial properties like second floor apartments downtown; and the new inspection letter will clearly indicate that it is from the City of Allegan.

Letters had been sent with no response. Clearly, the owners did not seem to understand that the letters were from the city and required a response. Landlords must schedule reinspection. Residents must meet the International Property Maintenance Code. Follow-up inspections must demonstrate that listed items are corrected.

The meeting closed after a brief round table from the city manager and a couple council members with a promise to speak with a couple who had questions about the Delano Street project.

Local chicken farms face many obstacles in bringing eggs to market

By Cindy Sasser

A story about egg prices quickly headed down the rabbit hole when questions were posed to the people of Allegan County who raise egg-laying chickens. These are the people who are living the underlying reality of what’s going on. People who are desperately trying to keep their chickens healthy and alive. The average consumer is completely unaware of their plight; and while it may be on a smaller scale, it absolutely depicts the severity of what we’re currently dealing with in the United States. It’s far bigger than excessive egg prices in the grocery store.

A highly experienced flock owner shared the reality of raising egg-laying chickens; she said, “I think what you’re missing are answers from the local Veterinarians about how many sick chickens they’ve seen and had calls on”

An extremely knowledgeable poultry exhibitor said, “Biosecurity challenges also affect supply and we have also experienced, first hand, the difficulty of protecting our flock from illness.”

Flock owners of Allegan County are rightfully scared and they’re looking for answers. They express that in decades of raising chickens, they’ve never experienced this issue before. They indicated that if they knew what the commercial farmers are doing, they could implement those steps themselves.

“Quarantine and treatment is costly and hard work..... but the regulations with commercial flocks are different so quarantine and treatment aren’t options a lot of the time. Regulations require the culling of healthy birds as a prevention and it definitely affects supply.

Additionally, years ago, you could purchase the antibiotics for your flock from your local TSC or online making treatment and prevention a little easier. I understand the reason for those antibiotics being regulated but the unintended consequence of such has been that flock owners don’t have the same ability to manage illness in their flock(s).”

Apparently the cause is wild birds being able to get in with the chickens for food and water. According to the CDC:

Infected birds can shed avian influenza A viruses in their saliva, nasal secretions, and feces. Susceptible birds become infected when they have contact with the virus as it is shed by infected birds. They also can become infected through contact with surfaces that are contaminated with virus from infected birds.

“I am going to be about a month out before I get one egg that I can eat, because if they are on antibiotics you can’t eat the eggs for at least 14 days after you stop the antibiotics.”

This raises the question whether commercial farmers are waiting out the antibiotic safety period. Uepcertified.com says that strict FDA regulations and regular testing ensure that antibiotic residues are not found in eggs in the food supply. It says that eggs from hens treated with antibiotics cannot enter the food supply until they are totally safe. However, that applies to organic eggs; non-organic eggs have a risk of containing antibiotic residues. Now that there’s a massive outbreak, are farmers adhering to those regulations? According to an article by Science Direct in September 2024, antibiotic residues can be found in the eggs that we eat:

Antibiotics responsible for restoring and protecting the health of hens can remain in their bodies and be passed on to their eggs, threatening human health and representing a limiting factor in their consumption by jeopardizing food safety.

Some good news is that the residues found in testing were below the established MRL which is the “Maximum Residue Limit,” so below this limit means it’s considered safe for human consumption. That limit may be a matter of opinion for some people.

Regarding the virus itself, many sources assure us that people cannot get sick with the Bird Flu from eggs or meat that we eat. They say that Bird Flu cannot be transmitted this way as long as the eggs and chicken are properly handled and cooked. Per the USDA:

As we remind consumers each and every day, there are four basic food safety steps to follow: CLEAN, SEPARATE, COOK, and CHILL.

In fact, the rare instances of humans being infected with this particular virus has only been those who are in direct contact with poultry, cows, or wild birds on a regular basis. However, that’s not really good news for these chicken owners.

“The part of all of this that’s hard is there is no compassion regarding how sick some of the chickens are and then you add the cold and winter on top of it and it’s been a nightmare for me; it’s also very scary because I don’t want to get sick from them.”

Regarding the egg shortage, one person mentioned that he read an article about Turkey sending eggs to the United States to help with the current situation. Sure enough, it’s happening, it’s all over the news now; 33 million pounds of eggs through July! This is a temporary solution while United States egg producers replace their lost flocks which will take several months. Importing eggs from Turkey is not something new, however; 71 million eggs were imported from Turkey in 2024 according to the USDA.

One very interesting point is that the Bird Flu outbreak began in January of 2022. The CDC says this (below) and they provide a pretty shocking data table about the outbreaks across the United States that is updated regularly and goes back 1592 pages as of today:

Highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI) A(H5) viruses have been detected in U.S. wild aquatic birds, commercial poultry and backyard or hobbyist flocks beginning in January 2022. The latest H5N1 bird flu detections in backyard and commercial poultry by state and county are provided on this webpage.

[<https://www.cdc.gov/bird-flu/situation-summary/data-map-commercial.html>]

“I’ve been to the auctions south of us and a third of the chickens are sick. I just went to the auction north of us and there are just no chickens to be bought. Laying hens are running $25 to $35 per bird which is crazy high!”

Oddly though, the supply of chicken meat is unchanged. It’s a bit confusing how that’s possible but this is what the USDA has to say:

Service inspection program personnel are assigned to every federally inspected meat, poultry and egg product plant in America. All poultry products for public consumption are inspected for signs of disease both before and after slaughter. The “inspected for wholesomeness by the U.S. Department of Agriculture” seal ensures the poultry is free from visible signs of disease.

It does not, however, say anything about it being free of antibiotic residues.

“This is what happens when “we” wipe out entire flocks of commercial birds because of “AI”. It’s a simple case of supply and demand and if you take a real good look at what affected the supply, you will find unpopular answers.

As a serious poultry exhibitor, I can tell you that even the chickens can be used to manipulate the economy. Not the popular response, but the truth.....”

“AI” meaning Avian Influenza.

Whatever your perspective, it’s a tragic and frightening scenario, nonetheless.

Gibson talks about future of police department

By Piper Raab

Chief Jay Gibson, of the Allegan City Police Department, has a very firm handshake greeting. He is a no-nonsense individual, with a big heart. He is a lifelong resident of Allegan and a 1993 graduate of Allegan High School. He has a Bachelor’s Degree in Criminal Justice and Administration as well as, a Master’s Degree in Criminal Justice from Ferris State University.

Chief Gibson has worked 28 years in Public Safety, of which includes 8 years, as Chief. As a young recruit, Chief Gibson shared, “I was enticed by the team effort and honesty; just needed a job. I did not think about that leadership would be in my future.”

Clarity becomes evident about Chief Gibson’s passion to serve the people of Allegan. Resources, on almost every level, are shared generously between city and county departments (from training to dogs). As an example of the resource sharing, four city officers are part of the SWAT team.

A bright Light Vision for 2025

Wasting no time, Chief Gibson describes a new approach to Crisis Intervention. The most vulnerable residents are on his radar. They are a top level priority. Officers, many times, are the first on the scene.

Recent release of statistics show, 1 in 4 women are either: burned, beaten or strangled by a romantic partner. Elder care for Dementia and Alzheimer’s disease is increasing. Adolescents and young adults, in emotional or physical peril, may need care, just as quickly said Gibson.

Help is Coming

Gibson explained that the police are currently undergoing training to have a social worker ride along on calls with an officer where acute crisis care is required.

The Social Worker will be highly trained and skilled in communication, for humanitarian and compassionate needs. They will have the appropriate medical knowledge and de-escalation skills for dangerous circumstances said Gibson.

Prevalent Concern

Chief Gibson, expressed his concern regarding the mental health inadequacy of in-patient care in the Allegan area.

“I have seen people waiting days in ER, for an open spot to become available. One person waited

4 days in ER, for an admission. Many people are released the same day, with no care.”

“We don’t want folks in the criminal justice system. It can all be avoided. When a person is asking for help; in no way automatically makes them a criminal.”

School Resource Officers

Chief Gibson continued with positive highlights. School Resource Officers: Chris Meade and Matt Luyk, for Allegan Public Schools, “the two officers were chosen in case a student preferred a certain personality.”

“Each and every student they encounter, on a daily basis, is treated with great care and empathy. Trust is being established with friendships and bonds. Someone who cares.”

Round About Update

The opening of the junction of M-40 and M-89 Round About has a good initial report.

- no crashes in the first 3 months
- only 3 reported crashes to date
- no fatalities

Traffic jams are alleviated and commerce continues smoothly to downtown. Semi-trucks proceed with ease said Gibson.

Officer’s Health

On a final note, Chief Gibson briefly mentions, how he encourages his officers to stay healthy. He is hoping to get additional gym equipment. Lifting, self-defense, long hours of search and rescue, etc.: go hand in hand with intense training, strength and endurance. Nine full-time officers comprise the Allegan City Police Department, including Chief Gibson.

“These guys really work hard, I’m proud of all of them. We’re a team,” said Gibson.

How do our public servants amass their huge new worths?

I often wonder if I chose the wrong profession. Don't get me wrong I love my work, but sometimes toiling 60 hours a week becomes kind of a drag at my age.

I should have run for election and become a member of Congress. Salary isn't too bad at $174,000, but what is really enticing are the benefits. Free healthcare, free office allowance (huge benefit), free retirement benefits and on and on.

But what really attracts me is the amount of net worth career politicians amass. I don't have a clue how they do it (I have my suspicions) but some of them walk into office with very little money and after 20 or 30 years they are worth tens of millions of dollars.

Remember their pay is $174,000 a year. Over 20 years, if they didn't spend a dime on any household expenses, they would have $3.5 million. But we all know mortgages, groceries, car payments, kids, etc. can eat up most of that $174,000. Maybe we have some left over to invest in stocks but over 20 years that gain wouldn't amount to over $1 million.

So what is the magic behind the phenomenal new worths of some career politicians? Our elected officials need to share with us ordinary people their keys to financial success.

For instance how does former Senate minority leader Mitch McConnell, who has been a public servant for more than half a century now have a net worth of $95 million? What is his side hustle? The guy can barely walk or talk, but man he knows how to make money.

His counterpart in the House of Representatives, Nancy Pelosi, again a career elected official, is said to be worth more than $200 million. Some say she has a keen eye for stocks that are about to explode. Others claim that key eye comes from insider trading. Whatever it may be she needs to share her secrets with her constituents.

And the list goes on and on. Chuck Schumer, Senate minority leader, is said to be worth $75 million; Sen Elizabeth Warren is worth over $50 million; and even champion of the people, Sen. Bernie Sanders has amassed a nice nest egg. All are career politicians, making that $174k a year.

It's not a Democrat or Republican thing. All politicians that have been in office for a long time seem to retire with large nest eggs. If I were a cynical sort, I would possibly think they received millions from lobbyists and donors seeking favors from the politicians. But then I reverse course, and realize our public servants wouldn't take money like that. Or would they?

One might also conclude the fortunes amassed by career public servants is a good reason to consider term limits seriously. As I have pointed out in the past, U.S. presidents, and state legislatures are limited in the number of years they can serve. Why should Congress be any different? Limit Senators to two terms or 12 years and limit House members to 4 terms or 8 years. That would eliminate career politicians and the fortunes they amass.

I am finding it a bit difficult to keep up with all of the executive orders being signed by our President and then trying understand how this might impact my life. Perhaps it takes awhile for a signature to be converted into action. If it does, maybe we will not feel so rushed or confused. However, one of those orders did catch my attention.

He directed the people in charge of making our coins to bring to an abrupt stop on cranking out new pennies. The rationale seems right on the mark. A penny is worth, well, one cent; the problem is they cost about four cents to produce, so right from the start it is a losing proposition. The President want to cut spending, and in this case the old adage applies: Every penny counts. Even so, it was a jarring thing to read.

Like all children, pennies were part of my life. Growing up, my sister and I each had a pint glass jar with a slot cut in the lid. That's where we saved our pennies. Once the jar was filled, my folks took us and the stash to the bank, converted it into paper money, and we stopped by Mae's Pantry to by a ceramic steer with a slot in the top and a cork in the bottom. Why The Olds called it a piggy bank when it was clearly a cow was a mystery to me. I just knew that it was a lot larger than a pint jar and would take longer to fill. After that, the money went into our brand new, official savings deposit book where each entry was initialed by the president. No, not the one in Washington: the real one! The one who ran the bank.

About the time I was in the third grade, a coin collector persuaded my dad that there was "real money" in coin collecting, and that some pennies were worth a lot of money. In particular, the fabled 1909 VDB-s and the 1914 penny from the Philadelphia mint.

The old boy saw the potential for gold in all that copper, and one day he went to the bank and persuaded the president to sell him one hundred dollars of unrolled pennies. They came straight from the parking meters, which meant no one had gotten the jump on us looking for that 1909 model.

He came home that evening carrying several cloth bags for the free labor (better known as my sister and me) to start going through them, one coin at a time. He had a list for each of us that included the two afore-mentioned pennies and a few others. Much to Mother's initial displeasure, he poured them on the breakfast table in a little alcove off the kitchen. Mother, who had never really succeeded for very long keeping the dining room clean, was delighted.

We went to work, picking up a penny, looking at the date, and either setting it aside for the Chief Inspector (Father) to determine the value, or putting it in a bowl to be returned to the bags. What started off as a great quest for treasure soon became tedious. One hundred dollars of pennies is ten thousand pennies. The only redeeming feature was the periodically we found one of at least some value. Among them, the steel pennies from the second World War, a two-cent piece from a century earlier, and one night we plucked out a ten dollar gold piece.

Father said that the gold coin was probably pinched by some teenager from his father's collection to use in the parking meter. That deduction was followed by a solemn sermon about not stealing things, even a penny, and never driving a 'hot' or 'flash car.' It was the first step on the slippery slope that moved on to detention in school, slicked back hair, rock and roll music, and eventually juvenile hall. If the boy didn't amend his ways, he would end up at the state prison in Stillwater or suffer through a miserable old age at the County Poor Farm. In between, he would never have more than a low-paying menial job. At least I had the good sense not to ask, "You mean like looking at pennies?"

Father was never cut out to be preacher, so the sermon did not make much of an impression on us. Far more intimidating was whenever Mother looked over her glasses with "that look" every child fears. Deeds more than words count.

We finished our work and thought that was the end of it. Wrong. Father had made a profit of some twenty dollars, not including the gold piece which he did not mention to anyone because it was illegal to own gold in that era. He did not want the police knocking on the door. Instead, he put the gold coin away, gave my sister and me each a crisp new one-dollar bill, and took Mother out on a date night.

He got his money back on the pennies and re-invested it in, you guessed it, another ten thousand copper coins. This went on for a couple of months until he was exhausted watching us work.

But if anyone thinks that President Trump's order means that we won't be looking at our change for a valuable penny, they have another thought coming. There are some 260 billion pennies in circulation. Some of it is piggy banks, between the cushions in the furniture, or under the front car seats. Some of it is hoarded away, and periodically we hear about a bona fide member of The Olds who has a lifetime stash of them in buckets in the basement. And somewhere out there is another 1909 VDB-S just waiting to be discovered.

All of which means that even with the Executive Order, you can relax and breathe easy: We are not going to run out of pennies for a few more decades. Just know, there is no point digging a hole in the basement floor to hide them. Today's pennies are primarily made of zinc with a bit of copper for color. Even with the price of copper steadily marching upward, it is a losing proposition to melt down your pennies, siphon off the zinc, and make copper bars. Yet to leave them in the ground means they will corrode down to not much of anything, and certainly not anything worthwhile.

As for stashing them away for the future, just keep in mind one word: Inflation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Four-Legged Pestilence

Dear Editor:

The deer have wrecked my landscape! They arrived in early January and have continued to use my landscape shrubs and perennials as their smorgasbord. For a guy who takes great pleasure and pride in his landscape this is extremely disheartening. Having lived in this house for almost 30 years, this has happened before, but usually the scourge arrives in late February and doesn't stay long, this year has been different. And I plan for it, to a degree, fencing some of the prized (and irresistible to deer) plants, banking that the others will just get lightly browsed as they wander the yard, but this year they keep coming back almost daily (yes, even during the day) to devour anything they can find. It seems hopeless.

Let me back up a bit. Having been raised in farm country, I have always had a love of the outdoors and growing plants. Which lead me to a degree in forestry and working in the tree nursery and horticulture industries for the last 35+ years. My yard of the last 30 has been my laboratory, growing various trees, shrubs and perennials to suit my fancy. As new plants are introduced, if I had room, I would give them a try. Some stayed, others that didn't do well were subsequently replaced with others (I can't make a rhododendron grow on my little acre!), especially with the shrubs and perennials, but I enjoyed the challenge of nurturing the plants and watching them grow. And the battles not only included insect and disease pests, but rabbits (who love my Iris and Lilies), woodchucks, and even muskrats that have to be contended with, but the real struggle has and continues to be the DEER!! Luckily they have yet to attack my Hostas!

So what to do? Over the years fencing has been my only guaranteed, fail proof defense. I have tried the 'home remedies'; bar soap, blood meal, Milorganite (a commercial, stinky fertilizer), human hair, animal manure – but when they are hungry, as they are now, fencing is the only thing that works for me.

There are some commercial products available, Deer Out, Plantskydd, even ultrasonic gadgets - I can't provide a recommendation here as I haven't tried them all, but with all things, buyer beware. Maybe I need to expand my options and give some of them a try. For now, my grandson enjoys chasing them off, and I continue to do the same. The real work will come in the spring as I attempt to nurse them back to health and vigor and unfortunately will need to remove and replace a few. On the bright side, I will have some open spots to try something new and hope the new plants won't be so tasty for the four-legged pestilence!

The Emperor's has No Clothes

Dear Editor

With all the confusion going on, is it possible that these conditions are just repeating history. I my opinion, the answer is YES. Below are two old historical examples from years 1837 and 70.

"The Emperor has new clothes" story by Hans Christian Anderson in 1837 is a fictional tale of tailors using a magical fabric to create a new garment. This story points out how a case of "Knowledge falsification" on the part of tailors and the acceptance of a ruler to believe the tailors. The story also highlights the collective illusion of individuals conforming to the tailors false knowledge, social pressures in public. Another aspect of the story is the lack of the public to criticize the nakedness of a Ruler. In a word, it's the public's "in-transigence": the refusal to accept reality.

The second example is from "The Gospel of Mark 7:14-23" written about the year 70. Mark documents his experiences of a parable of what enters a person is good for the person. In the United States, there are so many good things available to a person and opportunities for success like the First Amendment: "freedom of religion, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and freedom of assembly". This example is just one of many good things a person is given to understand. As Mark explains: 20 "What comes out of a person is what defiles them. 21 For it is from within, out of a person's heart, that evil thoughts come—sexual immorality, theft, murder, 22 adultery, greed, malice, deceit, lewdness, envy, slander, arrogance and folly. 23 All these evils come from inside and defile a person."

In my opinion, even deaf or blind people are experiencing the effects of knowledge falsification in the distortion and corruption in the public domain. The tailors using magical fabrics to weave Society deny what is true, giving information known to be false. Knowledge falsification is the deliberate misrepresentation of fact because of social pressures. The term Knowledge falsification was coined by Timur Kuran in his 1995 book Private Truths, Public Lies: The Social Consequences of Preference Falsification.

The two historical examples, in my opinion, show clearly that history is repeating itself with evil behavior coming out of people using the misrepresentation of facts and knowledge.

Other examples are listed below for your analysis, details not included here.

- Or try "good is bad and bad is good", Isaiah 5:20.

- Or Martin Luther King, Jr. 1958 "To ignore evil is to become an accomplice to it". He also said, "He who passively accepts evil is as much involved in it as he who helps to perpetrate it".

- Or use "I have free will, anything goes, circa today.

- The Ten Commandments written between the 16th and 13th centuries BC.

The confusing mysteries continue to unfold showing evidence of what individuals and groups are purveyors of Truth Falsifications. Perhaps it's not a mystery at all because Tailors using magical fabrics are promoting nakedness. Perhaps it's the inability to decipher simple parables? Why is Truth for some never found? Are more options just giant heaps of clutter causing infinite confusion? It's interesting that the majority of citizens completed their analysis last year and expressed their wishes at the ballet box. Enough, No more Magical Fabrications of Truth. Perhaps the Michigan Tailors will drop a stitch?

No employment; No taxes paid;
No purchasing power; More unemployment

Six Principles of Stupidity and Other Issues

Dear Editor:

Is the “culling out of waste” that Mr. Trump ordered Mr. Musk and DOGE (Department of Government Efficiency) to do in the Federal government really making America greater? For those who may not be aware, under the work of Elon Musk, a multi-billionaire in the computer world, and his young computer wizards, or hackers, there have been thousands of probationary workers fired from federal positions. In addition, valuable grant funding approved by Congressional Orders has stopped flowing to projects across the United States and the world.

There are many questions regarding the constitutionality of stopping the payment of funds approved by Congress and of the firings, but a great question may be: What do the firings of “probationary” employees who have been working at their designated duties do for the country, states and even Allegan County? The emotional stress is terrible, but will the release of employed workers match what is about to happen to the U.S. economy as a whole?

Under the Biden administration, the unemployment rate had been reduced significantly. By the time Mr. Trump and Mr. Musk complete their purge, thousands of people will suddenly be on the unemployment rolls. Mr. Trump and Mr. Musk might claim that the employees were offered “buy outs” until November, but they are still unemployed. Unemployed people are able to draw unemployment benefits from the government. How much will this drain the federal coffers?

When people are unemployed, they are no longer collecting wages equal to their living standards. They are also no longer paying income taxes or contributing to Social Security. No taxes = no income to the federal government. No Social Security deposits = the more at risk the Social Security line item is for paying Social Security benefits to those already retired and depending on this income.

Then there are payments – electricity, water, gas, housing, vehicles – for the basics. Forget about the clothes and “toys” that were purchased on loan. The “toys” may be the first to go back to banks. So, what happens to the mortgages and car loans? Even people who have learned to save for rainy days may not be able to stay above water.

Does the U.S. government and basically any business have a system for due process? Where is the evidence that any of those fired were performing their duties? If they were not performing their duties to the level of expectation, where is the evidence that they were given notice of their skills needing improvement and mentoring to make those improvements? Since when does a successful company email a person that they have been terminated without due process?

As an example, Mr. Trump has the Department of Education on the chopping block. Probationary employees were emailed their termination notices. Who are these “probationary” workers? Are these young, first-time employees fresh from school? Or are they seasoned teachers and administrators who bring experience to a position. Anyone with a student who receives special reading and/or mathematics services through Title I or Article III may see those services disappear or be reduced to bare bones. Then there are those students who are on Individual Education Plans (IEPs) or 504 plans. Who will monitor that they are receiving the proper services and reimbursement for those services?

Will firing those in the U.S. AID offices truly solve the Federal mismanagement of funds? Or will it take the boy’s finger out of the dike and start a flood of worldwide problems that will cost more money to fix? Will countries that have been working at establishing Democracies turn to Russia and China for assistance and end up turning their back on a democratic form of government. Do the current U.S. actions demonstrate that democracy does not work?

On the home front, immigration officers and judges have been “fired” which just increases the case load on those remaining employees to properly process immigrants and those seeking asylum. Or will the current leadership ignore the immigration system completely? The U.S. became great on the backs of hundreds of thousands of immigrants who worked and invented and moved the county to new heights over 250 plus years, because immigrants of all backgrounds and nationalities were working the land and building communities even before the Revolutionary War. Except for the indigenous people, everyone in the U.S. is an immigrant.

The Interior Department lost 2,300 employees under order from the Office of Personnel Management (OPM). Who will watch over the national parks, tribal affairs, endangered species and energy production and conservation on hundreds of thousands of acres of federally owned land? Is it not the probationary employees who have the energy to follow up on these issues?

The list could go on with the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) losing over 1000 employees and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) dismissing almost 400 workers and the Office of Environmental Justice that addresses pollution in overburdened communities dismissing 160 workers, and the Department of Health and Human Services laying off about 5,200 probationary employees. Many of these new employees come with specialized skills.

To summarize, Allegan County has numerous projects like the Superfund Project to clean up the Kalamazoo River that are supplemented by federal funds. The Allegan County Health Department receives federal funding to meet the health needs of residents in an underserved area. The Allegan Game Forest receives assistance from federal funds. Every school across Allegan County receives federal funds for higher needs students. There is agriculture across Allegan County that will lose valuable support.

Unemployment roles will increase. The people who were paying tax dollars will now be draining the system. More people will be looking for assistance with food, shelter and clothing – the basics. The funds given to nonprofits and government entities that help meet those needs will disappear because those who were employed and paying taxes are now taking money.

The middle class workers that Mr. Trump promised to support and strengthen are losing their employment and thus their purchasing power... Loss of purchasing power means that businesses like the automobile industry, recreational vehicles, and even beauty supplies of all kinds will suffer financially. Laid off employees do not have the funds to purchase new items. This will put even more middle class workers/taxpayers who are manufacturing goods out of jobs and increase unemployment rates even more. Where will it end?

Firing without due process = higher unemployment = fewer tax payers and diminished purchasing power = more demand on the unemployment system = less demand for goods and services = companies reducing employees or closing their doors = higher unemployment... Where will it end?

Maybe, proper investigation into each federal department should have been done to identify exactly where the “waste” was occurring? To reduce costs, maybe buyouts should have been offered to the higher paid employee who are at retirement age so a probationary employee could work into the position at a lower wage? Maybe, a billionaire computer tycoon is not the proper person to make life better for the middle class? Maybe, these actions are increasing tension and faith in the democratic system? Maybe not only will the unemployment rate increase, but so will domestic violence and/or suicide rates? Did Mr. Trump and Mr. Musk even consider the ramifications on the middle class worker before gutting the federal government?

Gari Voss

Gari Voss is an educator with over 50 years of experience at multiple levels of teaching and administration including internationally. Her forte over time has been to work to implement what can be best for the population for whom she works – students, teachers, families. Being a first generation immigrant and a middle class worker who has been employed in different environments, she tries to discern how a decision will affect multiple layers of people. The current movements of DOGE and the encouragement of the country’s leadership seem to be having a negative effect on all areas of our country and especially its middle class.

Dear Editor:

The last three weeks many changes have occurred in our government. Here is a sampling, but not all of the issues that the American public must deal with:

1. Offered illegal buyouts for government’s 2.3 million workers
2. Dismissed 17 solicitor generals illegally who are watchdogs for government agencies. The law requires a 30 day waiting period and reasons for the firing. Eight are suing because their dismissals are illegal.
3. Made a non-elected person to oversee a drastic overall of the government, and in charge of dispersing funds. Elon Musk leaked classified information through the Doge (Department of Government Inefficiency).
4. Funding freeze on trillions of dollars sowing disfunction throughout the government.
5. Made Russ Vought to led the Office of Management and Budget. He was co-author of the 2025 Project something Trump claimed he knew nothing about--do you still believe that lie?
6. $489 million dollars worth of food spoiled as a result of freezing USAID funds. This was food to people going hungry in some of the poorest countries in the world. How shameful.
7. Trump Administration is refusing to obey legal court orders, and claim they will continue this practice. Vice President Vance and Speaker of the House, both lawyers, have repeated this like a parrot. It is plain and simple an attack on the judicial system.
8. President Trump on his Truth Social proclaimed that public school educators are ugly. Totally not presidential. It sounds like something you would hear on a middle school playground.
9. Claims the January 6th cop assaulters pardoned were the ones being assaulted. How utterly ridiculous as witnessed by millions of Americans on video of the January 6th insurrection.
10. President Trump says Palestinians would not be allowed back in Garza under his proposal. An attempt of Ethnic Cleansing which is considered a war crime.
11. Wants to get rid of FEMA and his Homeland Security Secretary agrees and also continues to deny climate change. I guess flooding, extreme wildfires, multiple hurricanes are not occurring. How pathetic these Trump responses are.

12. Eliminate cancer research for children
13. There are so many more that it boggles your mind. The very worst, in my opinion, are the unqualified people named to important government positions.

David Brooks, a conservative journalist wrote an article entitled the “Six Principles of Stupidity”. He wrote this as a warning of the consequences of the Trump Administration.

Principle I: Ideology produces disagreements, but stupidity produces befuddlement. When stupidity is in control words become unscrewed with reality.

Principle II: Stupidity inheres in organizations not individuals. When one man has all the power and everyone else has to flatter his preconceptions, stupidity will surely result.

Principle III: People who behave stupidly are more dangerous than people who behave maliciously. Stupidity has all the answers.

Principle IV: People who behave stupidly are unaware of the stupidity of their actions. The Trump Administration is attempting to remove civil servants who have tremendous knowledge and expertise in their field and hire loyalist. This will fail as loyalist are unprepared to the reality of their jobs.

Principle V: Stupidity is nearly impossible to oppose. Reasonable arguments fall on deaf ears. Facts are deemed irrelevant and lies become relevant to the stupid person.

Principle VI: The opposite of stupidity is not intelligence, it’s rationality. The populists are willing to believe anything--conspiracy theories, folk tales, and internet legends; that vaccines are harmful to children. They don’t live within a structured body of thought but within a rave party chaos of prejudices.

America’s leadership class has spent the last few generations excluding, ignoring, rejecting and insulting a large swarth of this country. It’s worse when you seize power and start assaulting everyone around you. In fact, it’s stupid.=by--David Brooks

Musk, Trump ought to be fired for poor performance

Editor,

Donald Trump isn’t a fan of Diversity, Equity or Inclusion.

He has said that prospective employees should be judged on “individual merit, aptitude, hard work and determination - curiously, all attributes missing in every one of his cabinet appointees.

In fact, all of them have only one attribute; undying, unrepentant, unexamined loyalty. And the ability to kiss his “ring” as long and as hard as he desires which, for him, can never be long enough or hard enough. Ask Mike Pence.

Of course the biggest unknown was Elon Musk. Would we get the Elon Musk who brought Space X to life or the Elon Musk who turned Twitter into a walking zombie.

Now we have the answer: It’s the Twitter Musk. Or “Chain Saw” Musk as he likes to refer to himself - initiating mass firings of government employees for “poor performance”, many who have had no performance reviews at all.

But, what is “poor performance”?

Poor performance is the mass layoffs of Federal Aviation Administration employees without realizing he included air traffic controllers which necessitated recession of the order.

Poor performance is taking your chain saw to the Nuclear Energy Commission with realizing you sawed off the employees who safeguard our nuclear weapons.

Poor performance is decimating the Department of Agriculture without considering that you plowed under those employees tracking Bird Flu and those monitoring federal programs essential to our farmers.

Poor performance is the abrupt cancelling of hundreds of research grants in mid cycle thereby wasting all the money already spent and the knowledge attained.

Poor performance is not recognizing that when dealing with people surgeons use scalpels and not chain saws.

We already know who should be fired for “poor performance” and it’s not the federal employee working to complete an assignment in an already understaffed office.

Commissioners authorize survey to determine priorities

By John Raffel
Correspondent

ALLEGAN — The 2024 Board of Commis-sioners (BOC) authorized the third every-other-year county resident survey to help determine development of plans and projects as the 2025 BOC starts making priority decisions.

The survey is divided into two sections. A randomly selected sample of 3,000 residents have been mailed postal cards with a “confidential” link. The second part is open to any county resident by going to www.allegancounty.org/communitysurvey. County leadership also recommends reading the 2025 community update. It can be reached by doing a search on the county website, it tracks some of those initiatives linked to previous survey results.

“For example, the birth of the broadband expansion currently underway was a desire reflected in earlier surveys as was the desire for additional investment in public safety at the sheriff’s department and prosecuting attorney office,” former commission chairman James Storey said. “Completing the survey requires up to 30 minutes. The county uses a national survey instrument so most questions are designed to benchmark the county against other local governmental units across the nation.

“A few questions towards the end were written and placed by a local committee consisting of county administration, non-profits, and the county mental health agency. To be considered in the tabulation of returns, questionnaires must be submitted by late March.”

Allegan woman sentenced for bad check

An Allegan woman was sentenced to seven days in jail and 24 months probation for passing checks with non-sufficient funds to Menards last summer.

Jane Ann Beller, 57, had previously pleaded guilty to two counts of presenting checks with non-sufficient funds, $500 or more, and one count of presenting three checks with non-sufficient funds in 10 days.

Wayland Union's Dancing with Star takes center stage

By Gari Voss

The performing arts can add special twists and involve surprising talent. The Wildcat Dance Theatre students at Wayland Union High School under the direction of Leigh Ann Hill decided to host a fundraiser by creating an evening of Dancing with the Star Staff. The “stars” that the students discovered were staff working right in the school district. Once Mrs. Hill shouted out a request for volunteers, and after a bit of cajoling, the lineup of competitors and judges was filled.

Each star-studded staff member was paired with a student, or students. Rehearsals began. Dances were practiced and practiced and Polished. On Wednesday, February 26, 2025, at 7pm in the Wayland Union Fine Arts Center, the Stars Staff and their partners will take the stage before a live theater audience and a panel of judges.

To make it a proper fundraiser, each Staff Star will have a container with their name. The audience will be given opportunities to put cash in the container of their favorite dancer(s). Each dollar inserted will count as a vote. And since it is a fundraiser, the dance students request that the audience bring lots of dollars to vote.

While the audience votes are being counted, the illustrious panel of judges will be organizing and tabulating their assessment cards. The results of the two groups will be combined, and the winner will be announced. The Staff Stars & Dancers

The Staff Stars are volunteers from across the school district. Several stepped forward as soon as Leigh Ann Hill, WUHS dance instructor, asked for volunteers. Several required a little encouragement through one-on-one invitations from students to share their talent.

Rochelle Diaz, the high school Spanish teacher, will step onto the stage with 9th grader Bella DeLaney and 12th grader Sadie Holcomb. Ms. Diaz brings a background in social dance including Salsa and Latin, so she may have a bit of an advantage.

Paul Goodwin, the high school football coach and substitute teacher, has received training from seniors Kynlee Boomsma and Hannah Wilson. All of that tiptoeing through tires on the practice field may come in handy when mastering intricate dance patterns.

Karyll Russell, high school assistant principal, comes with a strong background in counseling and grew up taking ballet and contemporary dance. Students Kadence DuShane, 10th grade, and Makayla Featherly, 9th grade, knew that roping in the new administrator would bring the first-year enthusiasm to the stage.

Michael Doupe, high school English teacher, has been given a bit of an advantage with three 10th graders, Izzy Cassini, Maddie Davenport and Channissara Jungthawornanan, to guide him through the process. The question comes whether or not he will choose one of his infamous English T-shirts to complement his dance wardrobe.

Kacie Bultje represents Pine Street Elementary School. With a following from the Media Center and PTO, Ms. Bultje with assistance from 11th grader Alaina Lancaster and 12th grader Lily Hibma may have the numbers to put her high in the vote count.

School Resource Officer Jon Schafer expands his response time skills by agreeing to perform with Senior Reese Cassini. Officer Schafer has been touted for his quick response to emergencies around the school. Now, he gets to demonstrate his talents for mastering delicate dance moves.

Jamie Berens, clerical aide, ensured that Dorr Elementary would not be left off the stage. With the assistance of 9th grader Kaylee Nylaan and 10th grader Taryn Shook, Ms. Berens will be able to strut her stuff, and with her background at ULTA, she will definitely have the right look. If all her Dorr Facebook friends attend the competition, Ms. Berens may be an easy shoe in.

The Judges
When seeking judges for the Dancing with the Staff Stars competition, Hill put out a volunteer request then made her selection. The judges for the evening stack up as thus: Elizabeth Stein, the Varsity Dance Team coach, leads the quartet. Assistant Superintendent Theresa Fulk will ensure that all rules are creatively followed to a T. To represent the elementary grades, Pine Street 4th grade teacher, a former dancer and dance coach, Elizabeth Santana stepped forward. Rounding out the foursome is Cierra Onken, a special education teacher from Dorr Elementary School.

The Program
Wildcat Dance Theatre Artistic Director Leigh Ann Hill is in her 19th year at Wayland Union, and has been a dance, physical education, and overall health education teacher.

“We are one of a very few schools in Michigan that offers Dance as an elective PE and Performing Arts credit. Our fundraising event is to promote our high school dance program called ‘Wildcat Dance Theatre.’ I want to make sure that funds are there for our students to have opportunities outside the classroom” explained Hill.

“Competing in this event builds leadership, problem solving, confidence, empathy and communication skills. Through dance and this experience, my students have invaluable experience for the rest of their life. Dancers have now completed the journey of taking someone else through their own experiences. They started at nothing, looked for challenges keeping in mind limitations, got started, learned more about themselves and each other, and continued to build until it was finally done,” reflected Hill. “The journey not only involves the dance but it involves the person. Now, they get to share the fruits of their accomplishments with our community. I felt this would be a great activity for the Wayland community to have a night of fun keeping the goal in mind of raising money for high school students to go to festivals, workshops and see performances. These are things that we do not have extra funds to do.”

The Wildcat Dance Theatre students prepare three productions each year to culminate the fall, winter and spring trimesters. On Thursday, February 20th, the group performed their Winter Trimester dances for the community. That meant the dancers were preparing their star staff while rehearsing other dances for the trimester performance.

Three of those dances will be enjoyed by the Dancing with the Staff Stars audience. One will introduce the evening’s festivities, and a couple will be shared as the votes are counted.

The big event is Wednesday, February 26th at 7:00 pm in the Wayland Union Fine Arts Center, 870 E. Superior Street, Wayland, MI. There is a $6 entrance fee for spectators. Tickets can be purchased online at <https://wufactickets.ludus.com/index.php> and at the door.

Disability Inclusion Week at Wayland Union

During the week of February 24, 2025, the Wayland Union Schools will celebrate Disability Inclusion Week. Throughout the week, the incredible contributions of individuals with disabilities will be recognized. The overall goal is to highlight the importance of building communities that embrace diversity and inclusion.

Elizabeth Stein, Communications Specialist and McKinney Vento Liaison, stressed, “The week’s calendar of events will highlight classroom activities by hosting a spirit week and sharing facts about Special Education services aimed at raising awareness, fostering empathy, and promoting understanding. From inspiring stories of perseverance to educational workshops, we invite everyone—students, staff, families, and community partners—to join us in celebrating differences and championing inclusion.”

Inclusive Schools Week began in 2001 and is usually observed in December. The theme during the current school year is “Every Voice Matters”. Throughout the week, school communities focus on ensuring that a supportive and quality education is provided to every student, especially those who are marginalized because of a disability, gender, socio-economic status, cultural heritage, language preference, or other anomaly.

As a shout out, Stein encourages all, “Let’s work together to ensure that every voice is heard and that every student feels valued. Happy Disability Inclusion Week!”

Inclusion Week Activities in the Wayland Schools:

Monday: Red-Spect Day – wear red to show respect for those with different abilities.

Tuesday: Be Comfy, Be You – wear comfy clothes or pajamas to show acceptance of others.

Wednesday: Hats Off for Inclusion – wear hats to show acceptance of all abilities.

Thursday: Team Inclusion – wear something that shows your favorite to demonstrate team effort.

Friday: We Are All Wildcats – wear Wayland gear or green to show that Wayland is a unified community.

A goal for the week is to share facts about inclusion in education. To begin the week, the team shared the following demonstrating a story of resilience, innovation, and progress. From early challenges and barriers to groundbreaking legislation, the approach to educating every student has evolved tremendously.

• Early Challenges:

Historically, children with disabilities were often overlooked or excluded from traditional classrooms.

• Breaking Barriers: The passage of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 marked a turning point by prohibiting discrimination against individuals with disabilities in federally funded programs.

• A New Era with IDEA: The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), originally enacted in 1990, guaranteed a free and appropriate public education for every child, ensuring that special education services are tailored to each student’s unique needs.

• Moving Towards

Inclusion: Today, schools emphasize inclusive education, celebrating diverse learning styles and abilities, and fostering environments where every student can thrive.

Wayland’s leadership feels that Wayland Union Schools is part of a legacy that continues to evolve, ensuring that every learner is given the opportunity to shine. The staff, students and community want to celebrate how far they have come and look forward to a future where education truly means inclusion for all! Faces in the Crowd

By G C Stoppel

There have been several airplane accidents lately, and a number of near misses. Does this give you second thoughts about flying?

-Young man at a gas station on M-89: “It doesn’t bother me. I don’t have anywhere to go and money to go on a plane. I guess I don’t think much about it.”

-Couple, same location. Man: “Yeah, it worries me. It seems all of the accidents started about the time Trump became the president.” Woman: “I doubt there is any connection. You just don’t like him.”

-Woman near the Fennville hardware store. “Yeah, it worries me. Our daughter is supposed to fly home for spring break from Maryland. It really worries me a lot.”

-Woman, near the Fennville grocery store: “The way I look at it, everyone does sooner or later. The important thing is to be born again and saved and then trust God. It doesn’t matter. When God says it is your appointed time, then...”

-Man in front of the Blue Goose: “Well, flying is a lot safer than eating. You’re the one who wrote about all that microscopic plastic in the food that ends up in our brain.” Pauses, then laughs as he slaps his mid-section, “Not that your fearmongering stops me.”

-Woman near the Allegan Public Library: “It’s tragic, just tragic. We used to have a great safety record for air travel; now.... I don’t know what to think.”

-Woman with her: “I think Trump wants to stop a lot of the wasteful spending, but when it comes to air safety, he’s going too far. He and that Musk. I voted for Trump but I didn’t vote for Musk. He’s an insane mad-man.”

-Man near the Huntington Bank: “Yeah,

I heard about it, but I guess it doesn’t really have any effect on me ‘cause I’m not going anywhere. If I do, I drive.”

-Another man, same location: “I feel bad for all those people. Imagine being in a plane and something going wrong and you know you’re going to die and can’t do nothing about it. I quit flying after 9/11 because of that. It’s too dangerous.”

-Woman near the Allegan County News office: “They used to say that it’s more dangerous driving to the airport and home again than it is to fly.

Maybe it’s still true. I don’t know. Thank goodness I didn’t have anything to go lined up this winter.”

-Man near the Allegan Post Office: “You see in these war movies where the pilot flies inverted, and I guess that parts true. Those were fighter planes, see? But what I want to know is how the ^%$#@ can you flip over a big commercial plane, and that close to the ground. It doesn’t make sense to me. Makes me wonder if the Iranians or Russians were behind that one.”

Clippers place runner-up at D4 Team State Finals

By Jason Wesseldyk
Sports Editor

KALAMAZOO—It was a special weekend for Martin wrestling coach Logan Curry and his team. “It’s hard to put into words what these past two days have meant to me and the program,” said Curry, who led the Clippers all the way to the Division 4 Team State Finals at Wings Event Center before suffering a 45-35 loss to Hudson on Saturday, Feb. 22. “The coaches, wrestlers and fans have poured everything they have into this team and for us to reach the finals and finish state runner-up means the world to us. This weekend is a weekend we won’t ever forget.” Martin, seeded third, reached the finals by outlasting No. 2 St. Louis 30-25 in a semifinal match earlier in the day. The Clippers cruised to a 47-28 win over No. 6 Union City in the quarterfinals the previous day. “I was overjoyed with how we wrestled all weekend,” Curry said. “Going into the weekend, we knew we had the talent and leadership to make a deep run. We also knew that we were going to be tested and would have to wrestle three great teams if we wanted to win a state title. “The culmination of how we wrestled, the energy from our fans and the exciting duals made this an unforgettable experience for our team.” Martin still had a chance at the state championship with two weight classes remaining in the finals against top-ranked Hudson. The Clippers trailed 35-25, meaning they needed a pair of pins or a pin and a tech fall for the win. As it turned out, however, Hudson won both of those matches—a pin at 285 pounds and a major decision at 106. But that did nothing to diminish Curry’s sense of pride for his team’s performance. “I’m very proud of how our guys competed with Hudson,” he said. “Through eight matches, we were tied 21-21. And going into the last two weight classes, we still had a shot to pull off the upset. Not many schools have been able to compete with (Hudson) like we did today.” Martin took a quick 12-0 lead over Hudson by virtue of pins from Urijah Joostberns at 113 and Logan Gilbert at 120. But Hudson won the next four weight classes to go up 21-12.

A 16-2 major decision from Haylen Buell at 150 and a 19-4 tech fall from Jack Bagwell at 157 knotted the score at 21-21. The rest of the match belonged to Hudson, however, as the Tigers won five of the final six match. The lone win by Martin came in the form of a 16-4 major decision by Sam Bleeker at 215. In the semifinals, Martin and St. Louis traded wins for the first six matches, including a 9-6 decision by Gilbert at 120 over a defending state champion. Still, St. Louis held a 16-9 lead before middleweights Jayce Ritchie (144), Seth Toris (150), Buell (167) and Bagwell (165) strung together four straight wins to put the Clippers up 20-16. St. Louis won three of the next four weight classes, taking a 25-24 lead with one weight class remaining. And freshman Jacinto Lopez came through in a big way for the Clippers, picking up the pin to send his team to the state finals. “This was a big win for our team,” Curry said. “We lost to them a year ago at Team State, so to come out and get revenge for last year was an exciting moment for our group.” The quarterfinal match with Union City was never in any real question, as Martin earned pins in the first four weight classes: Jakub Tomyslak at 175, Malcolm Smith at 190, Bleeker at 215 and Cooper Dinse at 285. “We knew that to beat Union City, we needed to get bonus points from 175 through heavyweight,” Curry said. “Coincidentally, we started at 175, which was a great weight class for us to start at to reel off some wins and get the crowd behind us. “We ended up getting pins at all those weights, which gave us a ton of momentum to carry throughout the rest of that dual.” Joostberns (113) and Buell (150) also earned pins. Gilbert (18-11 decision at 120), Cole Reitz (11-8 decision at 132) and Ritchie (17-1 tech fall at 144) accounted for Martin’s other victories.

Allegan wins state quarterfinal match for first time in 11 years

By Jason Wesseldyk
Sports Editor

KALAMAZOO—When 2017 Allegan High School graduate Chase Beard took over as head coach of the boys wrestling team at his alma mater prior to the 2021-22 season, the program wasn’t in the best shape. Unable to fill out their lineup, the Tigers rarely won matches. Those struggles are now but a distant memory, however, as Allegan earned a 35-24 win over Hart in a Division 3 state quarterfinal on Friday, Feb. 21. It was the first time Allegan had claimed a quarterfinal final victory since 2014, which happened to be Beard’s freshman year with the team. And while the Tigers dropped a 72-0 decision to eventual state champ Dundee in the semifinals the following day, Beard had nothing but praise for his athletes and their accomplishments this season. “It means so much to me to be able to help turn the program around so quickly,” Beard said. “In my first season four years ago, we were at rock bottom with only half a team and rarely winning matches. Now, the team went 31-3 for the season and ended our dual season in the state semifinals. “Many of the wrestlers, especially the seniors who were with me for my first year, have a great story to tell of being part of the beginning of Allegan’s new program. They were part of Allegan’s rock-bottom team and the semifinalist team of 2025.” In the quarterfinal match with Hart, Allegan trailed 24-19 with four weight classes remaining before Luke Wedge earned a 15-7 decision at 138 pounds and Treydan Vanderkooi picked up a pin at 144. That put the Tigers up 28-24 with just two weight classes left to be decided.

A 10-3 decision by Landon Fance-Coulson upped Allegan’s lead to 31-24, thereby guaranteeing the win for the Tigers. “After (Wedge) won that 138-pound match, I knew that the dual was over, even with three weight classes remaining,” Beard said. And while the outcome of the match was already decided, Aiden Pearce put an exclamation mark on the victory with an 11-1 major decision at 157. It was the 100th win of Pearce’s career. Also winning matches for Allegan against Hart were Ryan Sparks (14-6 major decision at 165), Rysten Williams (pin at 175), Sylar Bush (14-7 decision at 215), Jacob Collier (10-7 decision at 113) and Hudson Vanderkooi (15-9 decision at 126). “There were many key matches in that dual,” Beard said. “Those wrestlers all executed their jobs perfectly. There were some tough matchups down low, and I knew we had to win one to two of those key matches.” The semifinal showdown with top-ranked Dundee was a tough one for Allegan, with the Tigers dropping six matches via pin and five more by way of tech fall. Not that losing to Dundee was anything for the Tigers to hand their heads about. In its quarterfinal, semifinal and final matches, Dundee won by a combined total of 221-6. “Dundee has a great program,” Beard said. “But we were not discouraged to go against Dundee. Rather, it was the opposite. We went out there with smiles, proud to see what we were up against as we strive to become a great team ourselves.” Sullivan Morgan had the closest match against Dundee, dropping a 7-3 decision at 106 pounds. Trey-dan Vanderkooi also lost by decision, falling by an 8-1 score at 144. And while the team portion of the season is over, seven Tigers are slated to participate in the individual state finals beginning Friday, Feb. 21. They are Collier, Morgan, Fance-Coulson, Sparks, Williams, Wedge and Treydan Vander Kooi.

Short-handed Bulldogs fall to Parchment

By Jason Wesseldyk

OTSEGO—It would be an understatement to say the Otsego boys basketball team was less than full strength when it hosted Parchment for a Division 2 district opener on Monday, Feb. 24. “This past week was a tough one,” Otsego coach Matt Dennis said. “On Friday night, we had four players out sick and brought up three JV players to fill the roster. “The weekend wasn’t enough to get us back to full strength—senior Matt Long tried to play but was too sick, while Wyatt Dennis, Owen Santman, and Andrew Ballman were at about 60 percent. They all gave it their best effort, and I’m grateful for that.” The result was a 60-41 season-ending loss for the Bulldogs, bringing their final record to 5-16. Otsego trailed 19-4 after the first quarter and never could dig out of that early hole. Freshman Max Mercer—one of three players called up from the JV team to fill out the roster—led the Bulldog with 11 points. Fellow freshmen Wyatt Dennis and Leeland Longcore added 10 points and nine points, respectively. “Of our 41 points, 32 came from freshmen and sophomores, giving me a glimpse of Otsego basketball’s future,” Matt Dennis said. And while the season didn’t go he had hoped, Matt Dennis had nothing but praise for his team’s five seniors: Louis DiGrandi, Scottie Durr, Matt Long, Andrew Ballman, and exchange student Eric Klein were great to coach and be around. “I appreciate our seniors’ hard work,” Matt Dennis said. “It was an up-and-down season with injuries and illness constantly forcing adjustments. While we didn’t win as much as we wanted, this group of seniors was great to coach and be around.”

Trojans cruise past Allegan in district play

OTSEGO—Be aggressive. That’s the message Plainwell boys basketball coach Larry Ash had for senior forward Chib Amaezechi prior to the Trojans Division 2 district opener against Allegan on Monday, Feb. 24.

Apparently, the message got through. Amaezechi scored nine points in each of the first two quarters to help stake Plainwell to a 42-25 halftime lead on the way to the 68-44 victory. “Chib can be really effective for us as a decoy, which allows John (Amaezechi) and Chad (Winenger) to get going,” Ash said. “But sometimes Chib can be a little too unselfish and we need him to go in there and try to score. “That’s what we needed from him tonight and that’s what I told him to do. He did a great job doing it.” Chib Amaezechi added seven points in the third quarter to give him 25 for the game. Given the size of Plainwell’s lead—it was up to 64-37 at the end of the third stanza—he sat out the final minutes of the third quarter and the fourth quarter. Winenger and John Amaezechi added 13 and 12 points for Plainwell, which improved to 15-6. The Trojans were slated to face South Haven in a district semifinal on Wednesday, Feb. 26, with the winner of that game taking on either Parchment or Paw Paw in the district finals. The title game is scheduled for 7 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 28, at Otsego. For Allegan, Quentin Edwards, Jr., scored a team-best 17 points. Antoincio Taylor added eight points, followed by Brandyn Kosiorowski with seven and LJ Dial with six. Plainwell’s lead stood at 64-37 entering the fourth quarter.

Allegan girls pick up 'huge' win over South Haven

By JASON WESSELDYK

Huge. No. Check that. Huge, huge. That's how Allegan girls basketball coach Sharron Thompson described his team's home win over a South Haven team that features one of the area's top scorers in Ly'Nique Cunningham. "This was a huge, huge win for us against the division-leading Rams," Thompson said. The win, according to Thompson, came down to a strong performance on the defensive end coupled with some timely shots on the offensive end.

"We played really good defense and were able to find a decent shooting groove to claim the victory," he said. Allegan (13-6 overall) trailed 21-19 at halftime before using a 14-12 edge in the third quarter to knot the score at 33-33. The fourth quarter belonged to Allegan junior Jayden VandenAkker, who scored eight of her team-best 16 points in the frame to lead the Tigers to the win. Maddie Antkoviak added 10 points for the Tigers, while Ellie Ziemelis chipped in with six. Allegan held Cunningham well below her season average with 20 points. The victory over South Haven got Allegan back on the winning track following a 26-16 loss to Parchment on Tuesday, Feb. 18, snapping a five-game winning streak. "We struggled to get anything going offensively, while the Panthers knocked down three 3-pointers in the first half to help them secure the win," Thompson said.

Allegan held Parchment to single digits in three of the four quarters, including three in the first frame and four in the final frame. But the Tigers were unable to score more than five points in any quarter in suffering the loss. Ziemelis and Alyssa Macherzak each scored six points to pace Allegan.

Fennville girls win two games

FENNVILLE—A double-double from Lila Rosema highlighted a 48-24 win by the Fennville girls basketball team over visiting Watervliet on Friday, Feb. 21. Rosema scored a game-topping 16 points and snagged 12 rebounds in the victory, which upped the Blackhawks' record to 8-10. Ceeley Howard had a strong all-around game for Fennville, going for 10 points, seven rebounds and seven assists. Christina Mendoza and Amiyah Johnson chipped in with nine and eight points, respectively. The game started slowly for Fennville, which trailed 6-3 after one quarter. The Blackhawks narrowed the deficit to 13-12 at halftime before embarking on a 23-5 run in the third stanza to go up 35-18. Rosema also scored 16 points two days earlier as Fennville held off visiting Black River for the 55-52 triumph. Cailey Mokma joined Rosema with 16 points, while Howard added 13 points to give Fennville three double-digit scorers. After trailing 12-7 at the end of the first quarter, the Blackhawks rallied to take leads of 27-20 at halftime and 46-40 heading to the fourth quarter.

Otsego girls split pair of games

By JASON WESSELDYK

PAW PAW—The third quarter was the turning point in the girls basketball teams from Otsego and Paw Paw on Friday, Feb. 21. More accurately, the final portion of the third quarter was the turning point. With the Bulldogs leading 43-36 midway through the third stanza, Paw Paw embarked on a 17-2 run to go up 53-45 on the way to the 71-60 win. The Red Wolves also scored the first six points of the final frame to push the lead to 59-45. "We kept fighting but ultimately couldn't get it under double digits the rest of the game," Otsego coach Tony Koshar said. "I felt like we were in good position, but Paw Paw made some nice plays and we had some breakdowns defensively that aren't normal for us. We also didn't finish well around the rim and that cost us." Brooke Smallldon paced Otsego with 15 points to go with six rebounds and three assists. Reagen Engbers added 10 points and three steals, while Tessa Prough and Audrey Lingbeek went for nine points each. Lingbeek also dished out a team-high four assists and matched Engbers for team-best honors in steals with three. Otsego fell behind 9-2 to start the game and trailed 16-12 at the end of the first quarter before bouncing back to take a 29-24 halftime lead. On Tuesday, Feb. 18, Otsego bested Sturgis 53-41 behind a game-topping 24 points and eight steals from Smallldon. "It was a good game for us on the road against an excellent Sturgis team that had been winning a lot lately," Koshar said. Otsego led 9-6 after one quarter and 23-13 at the half. Sturgis rallied in the third quarter and eventually narrowed Otsego's lead to a single point at 38-37 early in the fourth quarter. But the Bulldogs closed the game on a 15-4 run to pull away.

Lingbeek finished with 10 points, five rebounds, four steals and three assists, while Prough had nine points, eight rebounds and five blocks.

Martin girls get past Black River

HOLLAND—Avery Jager and Marybeth Ritchie teamed up to form quite the one-two punch for the Martin girls basketball team in its game with host Holland Black River on Friday, Feb. 21. Jager and Ritchie combined for 30 points and 15 rebounds to lead the Clippers to the 47-34 win. "Marybeth and Avery were dominant tonight," Martin coach Ben Schipper said. "Marybeth also played incredible defense all night long and was the most aggressive she's been in the post all season, scoring and drawing fouls. "Avery was also aggressively attacking the basket tonight getting to the free throw line." Jager finished 9-of-12 from the line, while Ritchie was 5-of-6. Martin trailed 21-19 at halftime before using a 13-3 third-quarter scoring run to go up 32-24.

The Clippers' lead was cut to four points midway through the final frame, but Martin regrouped to pull away. "We're so proud of the girls tonight for the way we finished this game," Schipper said. "I've said it so many times this season, but we've gone through so many growing pains with our close losses this year and tonight we pulled out our second straight close win. "It shows the growth we've had in many areas, but tonight showcased our improvement in game management. We slowed down and executed sets when we really needed buckets, we reduced our turnovers down the stretch and we made our free throws when we needed them." Alley Bacon added nine points in the way, with Kayden Jager going for six points and seven rebounds. The Clippers, who dropped a 68-34 decision to state-ranked Saugatuck in a makeup game on Wednesday, Feb. 19, beat Schoolcraft 49-41 on Tuesday, Feb. 18.

The Clippers led at the end of each quarter, but the game remained close throughout. "We're so proud of the girls for coming away with this win," Schipper said. Martin—which held leads of 8-6 after one quarter, 23-16 at halftime and 38-32 after three quarters—was up by just two points with 2:30 left to play. But two free throws each from Kayden Jager and Avery Jager gave the Clippers some breathing room. "Rather than crumble when things got a little tighter, we responded by playing our best," Schipper said. "Our defense got stops at the end and we finished the possessions with strong rebounds." Anna Jager scored a career-high 18 points to lead Martin. "Anna was knifing through the press, getting some coast-to-coast buckets," Schipper said. Kayden Jager finished with nine points—including a 6-for-6 showing at the line—while Harris had 10 points on 5-of-8 shooting from the field.

Martin boys end regular season with three victories

By JASON WESSELDYK

HOLLAND—When the Martin boys basketball team hosted Holland Black River in mid-January, the Clippers put themselves in position to win before ultimately falling by three points. Martin had the opportunity to avenge that loss in the regular-season finale on Friday, Feb. 21. And the Clippers made the most of that opportunity, outscoring the River Rats in each of the first three quarters and holding on for the 64-57 road victory. The win, which upped Martin's record to 8-14, capped off a solid week that saw the Clippers also defeat Fennville (62-59 on Wednesday, Feb. 19) and West Michigan Lutheran (72-24 on Tuesday, Feb. 18).

"What a great way to end the regular season, winning three in a row this week," Martin coach Corby Callaway said. "We let the first game versus Black River slip away from us, but we held on tonight and made just enough plays at the end to seal it." Blake Sweeting and Ethan Fitzpatrick carried the bulk of the offensive load for Martin, combining for 43 points. That included a game-best 24 from Sweeting—who also had nine rebounds, seen steals for four blocks—and 19 for Fitzpatrick. Gavin Meyers had a solid all-around game with eight points, nine rebounds, five assists and four steals, with Peyton Schuring-Harris going for five points and 10 rebounds. "Peyton and Blake had huge offensive rebound putbacks late in the fourth that really saved us," Callaway said. "Blake has worked himself into one of the most dominant big men in the area on offense and defense, and he's only a sophomore. "He just continues to get better and better." Sweeting's dominance was also on display in the win over Fennville, as he scored 23 points to go with 13 rebounds. That effort helped the Clippers overcome a 38-21 halftime deficit to secure the win. Martin held scoring advantages of 22-15 in the third quarter and 16-9 in the final frame. "This was a win for us," Callaway said. "We were down 17 at the half, but our guys never stopped battling. We got into a better rhythm defensively late in the third quarter and whenever our defense is playing well, our offense always follows. "It was another monster game for Blake. He really started to take the game over in the second half." Meyers added 12 points, with Fitzpatrick going for 11 to give Martin three double-digit scorers. "We made plays in the fourth quarter, whether it was a stop or getting a bucket or causing a turnover," Callaway said. "And shout out to our freshman Jason Marshall, who was 5-of-6 from the free throw line, including sinking two late in the fourth to put us up three." The outcome of the West Michigan Lutheran game was never in doubt, as the Clippers jumped out to a 25-8 lead after one quarter. By halftime, Martin's lead had ballooned to 50-15.

"It's always nice to win on the road," Callaway said. All 10 Clippers found their way into the scoring column. "We played hard and worked on some things that we need to get better at as we head into the last couple games of the season and into districts," Callaway said. "I was happy with our focus and our energy." Fitzpatrick led the offensive charge with 24 points, including six 3-pointers. Marshall and Sweeting added 11 points each, with Sweeting also collecting five rebounds. Meyers (eight points, nine assists, five rebounds), Schuring-Harris (six points, 10 rebounds) and Ben Romero (seven rebounds, three points, three assists) also had solid performances for Martin.

Plainwell cheer team claims regional title

By Jason Wesseldyk
SPORTS EDITOR

GRAND RAPIDS—The Plainwell competitive cheer team was the only state-ranked squad in the 12-team field at the Division 2 regional hosted by Forest Hills Northern on Saturday, Feb. 22.

That made the Trojans the favorites to claim the regional title. And they didn't disappoint.

Posting the top score in each of the first two rounds, Plainwell amassed a total of 767.68 points to finish more than seven points ahead of runner-up Zeeland West (760.14).

Cedar Springs (750.86) and Reeths-Puffer (746.6) finished third and fourth, respectively, to join Plainwell and Zeeland West in qualifying for the Division 2 State Finals.

The finals are slated for Saturday, March 1, at Central Michigan University's McQuirk Arena. Start time is 3:30 p.m.

Plainwell scored 232.2 points in round one at regionals and 224.08 points in round two for a total of 456.28 points. That gave the Trojans an 11.24-point lead over Zeeland West and a 19.02-point lead over Cedar Springs.

And while those two teams scored slightly higher than Plainwell in round three, it wasn't enough to knock the Trojans out of the top spot. In Division 3 regional action, Allegan placed 11th at Grand Rapids West Catholic with 677.92 points.

Trailblazers secure second straight SAC Central crown game on Friday, Feb. 21, as visiting Gobles jumped out to an 8-0 lead.

But as is so often the case, appearances can be deceiving.

The Trailblazers bounced back to outscore Gobles 27-6 the remainder of the opening quarter and never looked back in securing the 79-46 win.

In addition to giving the team's four seniors some good memories of Senior Night, the victory also put the finishing touches on Saugatuck's second straight SAC Central championship. The Trailblazers, who improved to 19-1 overall with their 13th straight win, finished a perfect 10-0 in the division.

Defense was the key to Saugatuck's success, according to coach Kevin Tringali, with "steals and full-court pressure" helping to stake the Trailblazers to a 65-37 lead through three quarters.

Four players scored in double figures for Saugatuck, with the dynamic guard duo of junior Tali Laskowski and sophomore Mylah Simpson combined for 42 points. Senior post Kennedy Gustafson added 18 points, with junior power forward Maggie Loomis finishing with a career-high 14 points.

Two days earlier, Saugatuck hosted Martin in a makeup game and came away with the 68-38 victory.

The game came just one day after a 58-47 win over Kalamazoo Christian.

"We have been hammering home the point of always having a championship mindset and effort regardless of the circumstances," Tringali said. "Our kids understand this, as you could see by their effort tonight."

"This was a game where they could have dipped below the expectations they have on themselves, especially after last night's game. But they didn't do that and for that we are extremely pleased."

Saugatuck led 22-9 at the end of the first period and extended that lead to 40-14 at halftime.

Seven Saugatuck players found their way into the scoring column, led again by Laskowski with 21 points and Simpson with 20.

The game with Kalamazoo Christian was a battle of two state-ranked teams. And the Trailblazers responded with what Tringali called "our best overall game of the season."

Laskowski paced Saugatuck with a game-high 24 points.

"But it was her several steals and assist that really helped us," Tringali said.

Gustafson recorded a double-double with 12 rebounds and 12 points, and Simpson finished with 11 points that included a 3-pointer late in the game.

"We are so proud of how resilient our kids were tonight," Tringali said. "It was a heavyweight fight from start to finish, but we kept our poise every time they made a run. We valued every possession as we only had 13 turnovers."

"We lost our player a few times on the perimeter and they made us pay, but we seemed to always find a response, especially the way Tali was coming off screens and getting to the hoop."

Saugatuck took a 27-20 lead into the break but saw that lead trimmed to 38-37 after three quarters. A 20-9 fourth-quarter run sealed the game for Saugatuck.

Otsego bests Wayland on Senior Night

OTSEGO—The final home dual meet of the season always brings with it some mixed emotions for Otsego boys swim & dive coach Dar-ryl Belton.

"This is always a very bittersweet meet," Belton said after his team hosted Wayland on Tuesday, Feb. 18, for both Parents Night and Senior Night. "In a way, I know all of my seniors are ready for the next thing and I am excited for them and that they are ready to leave. Knowing they won't be back is the hard part."

"As a coach, I am lucky that I get front-row seats in watching them grow from goofy and immature 13-year-old goofballs into strong and mostly independent young men. That part of the coaching experience is fun and makes my job better than everybody else's job."

"But I do tend to get a little melancholy in knowing that this is the end. In other two to four weeks, they won't be part of my day-to-day stuff."

Belton was happy that the seniors went out as winners in their pool, earning the 102-84 win.

"I thought we performed very well," Belton said.

Personal-record performances by seniors Caleb Payseno (175.5 in diving) and Jacob Underwood (2:24.39 in the 200-yard free style) were among the highlights for Belton.

"We were missing two kids and that meant the lineup had to be a bit different, but the team fought through it," Belton said.

Another highlight came from junior standout Liam Smith, who won the 100 backstroke with a state-qualifying time of 52.25. That gave him qualifying times in all eight individual swimming events.

"Liam making the backstroke cut was fun as that was the only event he hadn't qualified for the state meet in," Belton said.

Smith also won the 200 IM (1:56.62) and was part of the winning 200 medley relay team (1:50.53 along with Liam Raseman, Tyler Campbell and Willsun Fuller) and the winning 400 free relay (3:37.13 along with Blake Guerrant, Carson Bydash and Fuller).

Guerrant joined Smith with two individual-event wins, taking the 200 free (1:56.96) and the 100 free (51.1).

"Blake's swim in the 200

free was fantastic," Belton said. "It was his first time swimming that this season."

Caleb Wesseldyk won diving for Otsego with a score of 235.2—just three points from a personal record—while fellow senior Collin Crites scored more than 40 points on a dive for the first time. Crites finished fourth in diving with 159.9 points.

"Caleb Wesseldyk and Collin both dove very well," Belton said.

Other wins for Otsego came from Fuller in the 100 butterfly (55.56), Raseman in the 500 free (5:21.46) and Tyler Campbell in the 100 breaststroke (1:18.6).

"Hopefully this meet is a nice lead in to next week's (conference) championships," Belton said. "I'm looking forward to seeing what this group can do with a little rest."

For Wayland, Eddie Oudbier won the 50 free (23.58) and was part of the winning 200 free relay team (1:40.25) along with Alex Hubbard, Jackson Byers and Evan Barnaby.

Saugatuck boys drop district opener

By Jason Wesseldyk

SAUGATUCK—The season game to an end for the Saugatuck boys basketball team with a 42-29 loss to Holland Black River in an opening-round Division 3 district contest on Monday, Feb. 24.

The Trailblazers, who faced issues with injuries and illness for the past month, finished with a 4-18 record.

"This season certainly did not go as anticipated," first-year Saugatuck coach Ty Rock said. "But when you have a total of eight varsity players—and only two returning who played heavy minutes from prior season—and then compound that with all the injuries and sickness that we had, there were a lot of games where we were playing younger guys."

That youth showed at the start of this game, as Saugatuck committed turnovers on each of its first four possessions. That helped stake Black River to a 7-0 lead.

And while the Trailblazers narrowed the gap to 12-9 after one quarter and were still within three at 19-16 late in the second quarter, they never fully recovered from that slow start.

"It was a tough one," Rock said. "But when you start the game with turnovers and allow (Black River) many second-chance points, it's hard to win any game, let alone a district game."

"All year we've dealt with the same issues: turnovers, allowing second-chance points and transition defense. This game was no exception."

Seniors Cass Stanberry and Carter Miller led Saugatuck with 11 and 10 points, respectively. Junior Sammy Gamboa added four points.

Looking to next season, Rock knows there is work to be done.

"The young guys will have to step up and I'm confident that they will step up," he said. "They are a good group of kids, but most importantly they care about the game and they have the desire to get better."

"This offseason will be huge for us. If we have a high level of commitment, we can make huge strides. Only time will tell to see who wants to step up and get better every day."

PEEK AT THE PAST

From the pages of The Allegan News and The Allegan County News and Gazette:

Feb. 27, 1950
Coal shortage ‘snow’ joke as mercury nose-dives; County keeps roads open: John L. Lewis and the weather conspired last week to make life uncomfortable for a large share of Allegan County residents.
Steady winds that brought more snow at regular intervals kept most north-south roads in the county drifted and almost impassable. The financially harassed road commission kept its plows going on what amounted to a round-the-clock schedule.
State roads were given top treatment with the big plows all night long so they would be open in time for early morning traffic.
The commission had hoped to have Wednesday's heavy snow cleared off by Friday at the latest. More snow fell in the interval and the job developed into a project. It was anybody's guess which would hold out the longest—the snow or the road commission's funds.

continuing the resuscita-eral Hospital where electric shock was used to restore a normal rhythm to Mrs. Oisten's heartbeat.

“She would have died,”
said Dr. Harry Schneider.
“No doubt about it. She would have died without good resuscitation techniques.”
Dr. Schneider said it is not known why Mrs. Oisten's heart began to beat erratically—medically called ventricular fibrillation—but that she had undergone heart surgery last December and was still recuperating.

Students offered criminalistics for Wayland science: For more than 100
students at Wayland Union High School, science has become a little more interesting this year.
This is the first year the school has offered criminal-istics as a science elective.
The course teaches students how to process some of the most common types of evidence in criminal cases.

Brian Bollone, who teaches all four sections of the course, sets up a variety of crime scenarios, giving the students a scene and evidence and having them use the skills they have learned in class to solve the crime.
The students also use previous science courses when trying to solve the crimes, physics to chemistry. Bollone said that while most courses only concentrate on one of the sciences, crim-inalistics uses all of them as each plays a role in the process.
“The kids can see how the different sciences work together,” Bollone said.
At the end of the year-long course, the groups of students will create their own scenarios. They will then exchange their scenarios with those of the other groups of students and try to solve each other's crimes.

Next Safe Routes begin construction: After three years and several delays, work is finally ready to begin building a series of sidewalks and paths throughout

Allegan to improve access to local schools.
Allegan city director public works Aaron Haskin told city council members at their Monday, Feb. 24, meeting that Milbocker and Sons Inc of Allegan will begin construction June 15, having bid $647,654.89 for the work.
“It came in slightly under the maximum grant amount of $650,535,” Haskin said, referring to the Michigan Department of Transportation money paying for all but the engineering costs of the project. The city and township split those costs, expected to total 20 percent of the project.
Work was set to begin last year, but MDOT requested engineers verify that the soil along a portion of M-89be retested to ensure water could properly drain through the proposed stormwater leaching system there.
Borings were drilled, but the community missed its chance to fit into the bid schedule. Bids were then let in December and awarded in January.
Haskin said construction is scheduled to wrap up in August.
It will add 5-foot-wide sidewalks near Dawson and West Ward elementary schools and L.E. White Middle School, according to Haskin.
The grand was submitted in October 20-16. The competitive grants are federal money dispersed by MDOT in connection with the Michigan Fitness Foundation, created in 1994 as a nonprofit organization to expedite the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness, Health and Sports' policies and programs.

RELIGION SECTION

My favorite university professor taught American Church History. He was a fastidious little man whose hobby was writing operas about obscure Presbyterian preachers and their families. It was a surprise when one day he invited a couple of us to be his guests at a traveling Barnum and Bailey Circus, and wanted to be sure we arrived very early. He did not seem like the sort of fellow who would go to a circus.

When we took our seats, Dr. Henry explained why we were there. “I put myself through school as a high wire artist, an aerialist.” That left us with mouths wide open in surprise.

He went on to explain that the hardest challenge faced by a new aerialist is to make a mistake, fall, and trust the net to catch them. “Until you accept you WILL fall and have faith and trust in the net, you’ll never succeed.” I don’t remember much about the circus itself, but his explanation about his early career has stayed with me.

Sometimes we hear politicians and others talk about a “social safety net” to make sure that low-income individuals and families are included in the prosperity of our country. Or, firefighters train with nets, just in case someone is trapped in a burning building and has to jump out an upper story window. The net is there to catch them.

For those who believe in Jesus, there is our spiritual safety net. In his tremendous love and compassion for us, Jesus promised the disciples that even though he was returning to heaven, he would send the Holy Spirit to guide and protect them. That applies to us, as well.

For some, that assurance of that spiritual safety net gives us courage to do things we have never done before. Years ago, an older woman started taking art classes. It was something she had wanted to do her entire life, but the opportunity never presented itself. One day her minister told her it was now or never. She enrolled, and when her instructor gave the first assignment, she gasped. She blurted out, “But I’ve never drawn anything more than my breath!” Then she set to work, and over the next few years became a good painter. After that, she had a stroke that left her right side partially paralyzed. Undaunted, she taught herself to draw with her left hand. She gave a partial smile and laboriously said, “Now I am an abstract artist.” She understood she had her spiritual safety net and kept going.

That is an important lesson for us all. We are all challenged with difficult assignments, and it is easy enough to “quit and go home.” A fellow once said, “Oh, our family survived because we all learned to quit and go home when things got rough.” Thriving is better than merely surviving.

Jesus is with us. The Holy Spirit is with us. Let’s go have some fun and trust that the spiritual safety net is in place. Age is no excuse to give up on life. Instead, be the wild person, so trusting in that spiritual safety net, that people will ask, “All right, what is he/she up to this time?” That is living life to the fullest because we know our Lord’s safety net is ready to catch us.
